

Height and width decrease; learned feature channels increase before final classification.